

COMMUNICATION AT END-OF-LIFE: TRAIN-THE-TRAINER WORKSHOP

WORKSHOP OVERVIEW:

This FREE two-day workshop will provide long-term care (LTC) educators with tools and resources for teaching palliative and end-of-life (EOL) communication skills to personal support workers and other professionals in LTC. Using the train-the-trainer model, this workshop is intended for LTC educators who provide training and education in their LTC homes.

AT THE END OF THIS 2-DAY WORKSHOP SERIES, PARTICIPANTS WILL BE ABLE TO PROVIDE EDUCATION IN THEIR HOMES FOCUSED ON:

- Discussing definitions, myths, and misconceptions related to palliative and EOL care
- Exploring how personal values, beliefs, and experiences can inform your thoughts, attitudes, and care practices
- Understanding holistic care and the eight domains associated with illness and bereavement
- Understanding the four capacities required to establish a therapeutic relationship
- Practicing therapeutic communication skills: listening, paraphrasing, reflecting, summarizing
- Developing skills in communication with residents, families, and interdisciplinary teams
